Town of Farmville Electric Utilities Receives Safety Award

Farmville---The Town of Farmville received an annual safety award for “no lost work hours” for 2007. “No lost work hours” is a notable milestone. Farmville electric employees undergo extensive safety training each year.

Jeanne Bonds, Assistant Town Manager, Economic Development told the Mayor and Commissioners, “Achieving this milestone matters to our employees and Farmville citizens. Our electric department keeps the lights on and they do it in a safe manner. Working safely correlates to a positive attitude and committed work ethic.”

Bonds also read a letter from a citizen commending an electric employee for his positive attitude and the time he took to assist her.

“I am proud of our department’s achievement and committed to this goal for the future,” said Marvin Bryan, Electric Supervisor.
